

Lynch School of Education and Human Development

Restorative and Transformational Justice Minor For Lynch School Students only

The Lynch School of Education and Human Development (LSEHD) Restorative and Transformational Justice minor consists of 18 credits, 12 of which may not simultaneously be counted towards the BC core or the requirements of any other major or minor. The minor is designed to advance students' understanding of Restorative and Transformational Justice as a critically important tool. Students will explore Restorative and Transformational Justice topics as they relate to Education, Applied Psychology, and Human Development, selecting electives from various departments and engage in a social impact action project or senior thesis. Students are encouraged to check "EagleApps Course Information and Schedule" to research course offerings.
